

White Marble Disclosure

White marble is a beautiful and timeless natural stone that can add elegance and sophistication to any space. However, it is important to understand that white marble may be subject to yellowing or other changes in appearance after installation. These changes can be caused by a variety of external factors including but not limited to exposure to excessive moisture, chemicals, or other organic materials.

While we take every precaution to ensure that our white marble selections are of the highest quality, we cannot be held responsible for any yellowing or other changes in appearance that may occur after installation.

Additionally, iron deposits are a natural occurrence within white marble, and as such, their presence cannot be completely avoided or controlled. Please note that the presence of iron can cause discoloration, rusting, or staining over time, particularly in areas where the marble is exposed to excessive moisture or chemicals.

All samples or representations of our white marble selections may not be an exact match to the final product due to natural variations and characteristics of the stone. The appearance of the marble may change over time due to normal wear and tear, as well as exposure to external factors.
